Welcome to the Australian Hypnotherapists' Association

Providing the endorsement of your hypnotherapy skills that clients are looking for.

Introduction

Thank you for your interest in joining the association, the accompanying information explains the mission and criteria of the association. Please do not hesitate to phone us on the Free Advisory Line 1800 067 557 if there are any points that need clarifying or do not fully explain the requirements to your satisfaction.

The AHA is Not Just Another Registration Body

The Australian Hypnotherapists' Association (AHA) considers that Clinical Hypnotherapy is a professional modality with clearly recognisable standards and a philosophy that is supported by a distinct and proven body of knowledge.

The AHA has been the National Registration Body for hypnotherapists since 1949. Registration with a professional Registration Body such as the AHA reflects a hypnotherapist's willingness to demonstrate to the public a strong desire to be accountable. Registration is the only formal process that members of the public can rely on in relation to standards and accountability. Therefore, if you are looking for a Professional Hypnotherapy Association to join... then this is the one. Not only is the AHA the oldest Hypnotherapy Association in Australia, it is also the largest Hypnotherapy Association and Registration Body in Australia. However membership is not restricted to only Australian based hypnotherapists. The AHA is the voice for professional hypnotherapists

The AHA, as Australia's leading independent National Registration and Industry Representative Body, represents only professional hypnotherapists and fulfils many crucial roles within the framework of the hypnotherapy profession. These include consistent standards in training, ongoing professional development, professional supervision, industry and professional representation to the government and other appropriate bodies, including the traditional medicine and health insurance industries. The AHA was founded in 1949 and incorporated in 1956, and has grown into the largest independent professional body for hypnotherapists in Australia. We are not just talking about it, we are doing it.

The AHA's primary responsibility is for the ongoing registration of individual practitioners and setting the criteria for the validation of Recognised Training Courses. The AHA is proudly independent and does not have a direct relationship with any one particular teaching institution. This means that we evaluate each applicant on the basis of their academic output, training and experience.

The AHA is not about rhetoric; it is an action orientated professional body. It is not simply a service and membership body. The AHA exists for its members and therefore member benefits and services are our first priority. The AHA's second priority is to ensure that the hypnotherapy profession is represented appropriately to government and other professional organisations. The AHA is unlike any other body for hypnotherapists in Australia. The AHA's Head Office with its Free Advisory Line 1800 067 557 is able to react quickly to meet any enquiries.

AHA membership and registration on the National Hypnotherapy Register of Australia (NHRA) has gained national recognition as the standard for the practice of hypnotherapy. Anecdotal evidence suggests that government departments, insurance companies and the public now recognise the importance of such standards and view AHA membership and NHRA registration as a basic requirement for hypnotherapy as a treatment modality. As a practising hypnotherapist (or future hypnotherapist), it is crucial that your qualifications are recognised by a National Professional Registration body. Recognition of your qualifications by a reputable National organisation, such as the AHA, clearly establishes your level of professionalism and good character to your clients, the general public and your colleagues. Being registered with the AHA also means that you will be able to practice under uniform and clearly defined Code of Conduct and Practitioner Standards. Registration with a Professional Body also demonstrates a practitioner's willingness to demonstrate to the public a strong desire to be accountable. Registration is the only formal process that members of the public can rely on in relation to standards and accountability.

To be a member of the AHA, it does not matter where you studied - what matters is that you are able to show the Board that you are properly trained and know your hypnotherapy. Prospective members are examined in the relevant areas of hypnotherapy including psychology and counselling as well as the clinical applications of hypnotherapy. Prospective members also need to pass a police clearance check to protect the public by ensuring that they are suitable persons to carry out therapy. Once accepted as members, they are required to enter into a supervisory relationship throughout their period of membership. All members are sworn to uphold the professional and ethical standards of the AHA as they are set out in the Association's Code of Ethics. (see the AHA website for further details www.ahahypnotherapy.org.au)

What does the AHA offer you that other associations don't?

The AHA as the National Registration Body for Hypnotherapists is a progressive professional association that fulfils a critical role within the Australian hypnotherapy industry. The AHA is primarily concerned with providing a unified voice for the hypnotherapy industry; by maintaining a national complaints tribunal and supporting its members by providing a consistent Code of Ethics, setting Industry Standards for all hypnotherapists; maintaining a National Register of practicing clinical hypnotherapists; lobbying on behalf of its membership the health funds for rebates for members' clients; lobbying the government for formal recognition of hypnotherapy as an Allied Health Profession; encouraging the general public to be more aware of the hypnotherapy profession and the availability of reputable hypnotherapists; lobbying the Insurance companies for fair and reasonable insurance coverage, and for the formal recognition of hypnotherapy as a separate profession. The AHA is an independent association that offers member services and benefits second to none.

Professional Representation

An organisation's credibility as the Professional Registration Body is generally reflected by its standards, benefits, services and professional paid staff. The AHA's head office is situated in Sydney in NSW. Members are normally able to speak directly to a person and if not, your call will be returned as soon as humanly possible. All applications and personal information are filed and locked away in metal filing cabinets as well as entered onto the national database which maintained on a secure server. The association has a professional administrator who ensures that all applications and requests for documentation are processed quickly and efficiently.

Having professional representation also ensures that the AHA can respond or lobby the government on issues as they occur. It is our experience that any issues involving the government have a very short life span in regard to taking effective action. The AHA is a National Registration Body; therefore the physical location of our Head Office in no way inhibits our ability to effectively respond to members or issues anywhere in Australia as the national committee is made up of representatives from all over Australia. This ensures we remain up to date in each state.

National Registers

The AHA has four National Registers that are made available to the public:

1. NHRA (National Hypnotherapists Register of Australia) - Find a hypnotherapist Register, for the public looking for an accredited NHRA hypnotherapist,
2. National Register of all AHA members, for the Advisory line
3. Professional Supervisor Register: Requires pre-requisite qualifications for eligibility.
4. Foreign language speaking hypnotherapists register

AHA National Hypnotherapists Register of Australia (NHRA)

It is NHRA registration that separates professional hypnotherapists from the rest and reflects accountability to the public, government, insurance companies and health funds. Registration on the NHRA register is open to all hypnotherapists who meet accreditation standards whether or not you are an AHA member. There are no extra administrative costs for AHA members. Hypnotherapists whose names do not appear on the register cannot claim to be an accredited NHRA Hypnotherapist.

The National Hypnotherapists Register of Australia (NHRA) is updated regularly. As mentioned earlier the NHRA register is not restricted to AHA members but, as a National Register, is open to all hypnotherapists that meet the NHRA standards, it is imperative that all AHA Clinical and Professional members are included on the NHRA to affirm to the public that they are in fact accredited NHRA hypnotherapists.

Registration is an issue raised by government consistently in regard to hypnotherapy being formally recognised as a profession in its own right rather than seen as just an adjunct to psychology, psychotherapy or counselling. The AHA has been in discussions with the Department of Health and Ageing and any agreement that is made will always be relevant to accredited NHRA hypnotherapists.

Membership Benefits and Services.

The AHA Advisory Line

The AHA has a Free Advisory Line for the both the public and AHA members. Services available include answering questions and recommending accredited NHRA hypnotherapists in their area as well as membership enquiries.

As the Registration Body for hypnotherapists and the oldest and largest hypnotherapy association in Australia, the AHA's high standards have withstood the test of time. For more than sixty years it has been the leader in the field and invites all practicing hypnotherapists in Australia, New Zealand and overseas, to join this highly respected progressive, proactive and continuously expanding hypnotherapy association. For criteria and application details please see the relevant pages in this prospectus or phone the 1300 55 22 54 number.

The AHA continuing education programs

To assist members to remain current with the latest techniques and new developments of clinical hypnotherapy the AHA maintains a continuing education program that consists of seminars, workshops and discussion/support groups, as well as supervision sessions (both group and one on one). All AHA State workshops and seminars are attended by well-known speakers and experts in their field, thus facilitating a broadly accessible collegial and educational setting.

AHA members are given substantial discounts to AHA workshops. The AHA also holds regular general meetings followed by the opportunity for members to meet informally over lunch, thus giving members the opportunity to socialise, network and exchange ideas and knowledge about their particular areas of interest or expertise.

The AHA also advertises members' workshops in the Australian Hypnotherapy Journal

Australian Hypnotherapy Journal

AHA sends out a quarterly e-journal to assist members to remain informed of happenings within the association and industry. The journal contains articles and information on conferences, workshops, therapies, overseas news, and business building hints, fact pages, book reviews, workshop & training reviews and also has a very competitive advertising scheme. This journal is also available to the general public, is stored in the National Archives and offers advertising opportunities to a wide variety of educational institutions. Members are encouraged to submit articles/papers for publication.

Monthly Newsletter

As well as the journal each member receives a regular newsletter containing relevant updates and information pertaining to the hypnotherapy industry as well as within the Association. The Newsletter is free to all members who supply us with an email address.

Private Health Fund Provider Numbers

The AHA was the first Hypnotherapy association to successfully negotiate provider numbers specifically for clinical hypnotherapists in Australia.

To ensure continued recognition all AHA members comply with the requirements of the Private Health Insurance (Accreditation) Rules 2008 which state: If the treatment is provided by a health care provider who is not referred to in sub-rule 7(1) or rule 8 or 9, the standard for that treatment is that the health care provider providing the treatment must be a member of a professional organisation which covers health care providers who provide that type of treatment (the profession) and which:

- a) is a national entity which has membership requirements for the profession; and
- b) provides assessment of the health care provider in terms of the appropriate level of training and education required to practise in that profession; and
- c) administers a continuing professional development scheme in which the health care provider is required, as a condition of membership, to participate; and
- d) maintains a code of conduct which the health care provider must uphold in order to continue to be a member; and
- e) maintains a formal disciplinary procedure, which includes a process to suspend or expel members, and an appropriate complaints resolution procedure.

AHA Recognition by Government

The AHA has been recognised as an authority on Clinical Hypnotherapy by both Governmental and private agencies. AHA members are regularly invited to speak at various Community and Service organisations about hypnosis and hypnotherapy. AHA members are recognised as health professionals by most of the Private Health Funds.

Discounted Professional Indemnity and Public Liability Insurance

All practicing members of the AHA must carry insurance for professional indemnity and public liability. The AHA has negotiated extremely competitive rates with Fenton Green. All contact details are available on the AHA website and are in each issue of the Australian Hypnotherapy Journal.

Research

The AHA is aware of the importance of research and development for the advancement of Hypnotherapy. To this end the AHA have several strategies to encourage research within our profession. One strategy has been to publish Australian and International researchers' findings in the Australian Hypnotherapy Journal.

The History of the AHA

The Australian Hypnotherapists' Association (AHA) has been representing hypnotherapists in Australia since 1949. The AHA's early members were the pioneers of hypnotherapy in Australia. The Association was officially formed in Victoria in 1949 however all of the foundation members had already been in practice for many years. They created the AHA as a National Peak Body because they had concerns about the possibility that aspects of the profession could be regulated de facto by governments or other bodies with no specialist knowledge of the hypnotherapy field. Thus they created the AHA as a Hypnotherapy Registration Body specifically for four reasons:

1. To provide a unifying self-regulation role for the profession of hypnotherapy. The AHA founders recognised the importance of developing and maintaining uniform technical, clinical and ethical standards for hypnotherapists.
2. To support its members by supplying opportunities for exchanges of information, supervision and continuing education in the form of workshops, seminars and conferences.
3. To advance the knowledge, art, science and practice of hypnotherapy and establish and elevate the status of the profession, and thus engender the respect and confidence of the community.
4. To stimulate public interest in hypnotherapy and assist in keeping members up to date in the latest developments into hypnotherapy techniques.

In 1957 the AHA was incorporated as a non-profit, democratic association with branches in most states of Australia. Over the years the AHA has continued to gain wide recognition for the expertise and ethical standards it has maintained in the field of hypnotherapy. The Association, as the independent registration body, set a high standard of proficiency and only skilled therapists of high integrity, using approved techniques, are accepted as members.

The AHA's prestige, impeccable reputation and longevity are exemplified by the success of its representations to the Federal and State governments regarding the deregulation of hypnosis and the favourable insurance policies offered to AHA members.

AHA Standards Book

Our standards book "A Set of Competency and Proficiency Standards for Australian Professional Clinical Hypnotherapists – A descriptive Guide to the Australian Hypnotherapists' Association Accreditation System" first published in 1996, is available from the National Library and all State libraries in Australia as well as selected overseas libraries. It is the first book ever written, both in Australia and overseas that sets out Hypnotherapy standards for the profession. This and the 2nd updated edition may be seen on the AHA web site:

<http://ahahypnotherapy.org.au/wp-content/uploads/2012/06/1999-AHA-Competency-Proficiency-Standards-Book.pdf>.

AHA Vision Statement:

- The AHA, as the professional Registration Body for hypnotherapy in Australia,
- Recognised by government and the health industry by maintaining the highest standards for the profession.
- Providing support to our members and informing the public as to the benefits of clinical hypnotherapy

AHA Aims, Standards, Purpose, and Mission Statement

Aims:

- The AHA's aim, as the largest National Association, is to provide continuing empirical leadership and support in the field of hypnotherapy to practising hypnotherapists throughout Australia.
- To be a self-regulatory body to provide for registration of hypnotherapists in Australia;
- To liaise with Government for the benefit of members and the public;
- To maintain a register of qualified practicing hypnotherapists;
- To identify to consumers, hypnotherapists that meet nationally-approved standards of practice;

- To provide a single unified voice for the hypnotherapy industry;
- To provide a consistent Code of Conduct and set of Practitioner Standards;
- To provide a National Complaints Tribunal;
- To promote the professional development and growth of practising hypnotherapists;
- To assess, review and recognise hypnotherapy education courses;
- To provide an industry-based association for persons engaged in hypnotherapy education;
- To raise awareness of Australian hypnotherapists internationally;
- To help the public at large to become more aware of the hypnotherapy profession and the availability of reputable hypnotherapists;

Standards:

The Code of Conduct and Training Standards documents reflect the association's standards. These can be found on the AHA web site www.ahahypnotherapy.org.au.

Purpose:

The AHA sees its purpose as providing:

- a professional association representing high standards, benefits and services for its members,
- a formal registration process that can be audited and made available for public scrutiny,
- through the provision of professional services the ability to raise public confidence and trust in the hypnotherapy profession.

Mission Statement:

To continue to be recognised by the profession, the public and governments as "The National Registration Body" for professional, practicing hypnotherapists in Australia.

The AHA is a non-profit organisation

The AHA is a non-profit, democratic institution, and is independent of any academic or commercial interest.

International Alliances:

Through professional and personal contacts with other national and international Peak hypnotherapy associations, the AHA encourages cooperative relationships with fellow professionals throughout the world.

In 2006 the AHA was formally recognised by the largest hypnotherapy association in the UK, by forming a strategic alliance with the UK Hypnotherapy Peak Body, The General Hypnotherapy Standards Council (GHSC). As the GHSC is arguably the world's largest and most successful professional body for hypnotherapists this reflects the AHA's standing within the International community of hypnotherapists.

In 2007 the AHA formed an alliance with the ARCH, Canada's Peak Hypnotherapy body; and in 2008 the AHA and the NZHA, New Zealand's Peak Hypnotherapy body, formed an alliance. Again this indicates the AHA's high standing within the International hypnotherapy community.

Affiliations with Peak Australian Associations:

The AHA has also been recognised within Australia through its inaugural membership with PACFA (The Psychotherapists and Counsellors Federation of Australia), and the Hypnotherapy Council of Australia both are National Peak bodies that represents the interests of the large number of therapists working within the various modalities within the disciplines of psychotherapy, counselling and hypnotherapy.

The AHA is listed as a referral agent on the Stop Smoking website and the Stop Gambling website.

Registration of Independent Hypnotherapists

The AHA acts as the National Registration body for hypnotherapists via its Register the National Hypnotherapists Register of Australia (NHRA) and therefore is primarily an individual membership body. Hypnotherapists, NLP practitioners, life coaches, counsellors, psychotherapists, social workers, psychologists, nurses, etc may apply for membership if they meet the hypnotherapy eligibility criteria as defined later in this application.

The AHA encourages all its accredited members onto this voluntary register as a free benefit in preparation for any future statutory regulation. Thus as a matter of course all AHA accredited members are now automatically registered with the NHRA at no extra cost to themselves (with an opt-out clause for those who do not wish to be registered). Continued registration is dependent upon the maintenance of their annual re-accreditation.

The AHA welcomes professionals from other disciplines that have hypnotherapy training. However the AHA is primarily a body for hypnotherapists first and foremost. Therefore registration with other professional bodies or state registration boards will not automatically meet AHA or NHRA membership criteria. The AHA's philosophy is that all hypnotherapists who have completed the appropriate training should have access to membership of a National body such as the NHRA at a level that enables them to be registered.

Why be Registered:

Members of the Australian public are familiar with the term "registered". Psychologists, doctors, psychiatrists and nurses are all registered professionals. When members of the public use any of these professions there is an inherent understanding that the services they are offered are by registered professionals. For a hypnotherapist to practice as a registered NHRA hypnotherapist the public needs to know the hypnotherapist not only meets membership criteria but also meets other criteria to meet quality control, risk management issues and accountability. The AHA and/or NHRA meet these issues in the following ways:

Mandatory requirements of Professional Supervision and Ongoing Professional Development (OPD) address quality control issues. Quality control also includes mandatory requirements to have Professional and Public Liability Insurance as well as mandatory registration for an Australian Business Number (ABN) for individual practitioners. All of this is incorporated with a complaints commission to address accountability issues. Risk management is addressed through training offered by the AHA and through articles in the quarterly Australian Hypnotherapy Journal

Each member of the AHA provides documentary evidence annually to meet these standards. Every hypnotherapist who is registered with the AHA and/or NHRA has an individual personal file kept at the AHA's National Head Office and on the national database showing documentary evidence that this member meets all necessary requirements. Each file is audited annually to ensure the registered hypnotherapist maintains all mandatory requirements.

Grandfather Clause

The AHA is an inclusive association and welcomes membership applications from older experienced hypnotherapists who do not necessarily meet all our educational requirements. The AHA is aware that some older hypnotherapists do not have a formal recognised qualification in hypnotherapy, but do have an extensive history and experience in the hypnotherapy field. Many older hypnotherapists who first began practising over 25 years ago were not required to complete extensive courses in hypnotherapy. Therefore hypnotherapists who wish to join the AHA and who believe that they may fall into this category should ring the Free Advisory line 1800 067 557 for more details about how to apply under this clause. However, only older hypnotherapists who have a significant documented history of practice as a hypnotherapist can apply under this clause.

AHA Recognised Academic Qualifications

Standards of training for membership of the AHA are high. Many training providers are now asking the AHA to assess their courses to ensure their students are able to register for membership of the AHA and/or NHRA.

An accredited course to meet AHA Associate standards must have a minimum of 150 hours of course content including experiential training. An accredited course to meet AHA Clinical standards must have at least a minimum of 600 hours of course content including experiential training. Hypnotherapy skills must be assessed in an experiential setting. Experiential training is work that involves hypnotherapy practice and assessment via face-to-face with an assessor who is also a qualified hypnotherapist. On line courses and courses that assess by essay form only are not acceptable.

Courses that meet AHA training standards in relation to registration can be found on the AHA website or alternatively you can phone the Free Advisory Line 1800 067 557 and clarify whether your qualification or course meets with AHA training standards. Courses that carry the AHA courses recognition logo also automatically meet AHA academic standards.

Reciprocal memberships:

Due to considerable differences in membership criteria and training standards it is not possible at this moment for the AHA to have any formal reciprocal agreements with most overseas associations. However, full members of ASTA, ASCH, PCHA, NZHF, ARCH & GHR will in most cases be eligible for clinical membership to the AHA. Members of these associations who wish to join the AHA must produce a current certified Certificate of Membership complete with all AHA requested documentation before membership can be considered.

AHA State Branches

Attendance at State trainings and meetings attract points in relation to OPD and any activities such as group supervision are counted towards your professional supervision requirements.

For further information on State branches contact the relevant state membership secretary via: <http://ahahypnotherapy.org.au/contact-us/> or phone 1300 55 22 54.
